

ABSTRACT

A method of burial includes collecting and containing physical remains including cremated ashes and non-cremated DNA material of a deceased person, collecting in a memory device digitized data on the biographical and 5 medical history of the deceased person, providing a sealable time capsule to contain the physical remains and the digitized data, and providing a communication terminal on the time capsule for accessing, uploading and downloading the digitized data.